Winery slates sipping social

Question: What are the differences among Concannon Vineyards Petite Sirahs and Cabernet Sauvignons, vintages 1971 through 1976?

Answer: Who cares?

Well, Joe and Jim Concannon, to start with, along with a handful of faithful who basked in the gentle warmth of a spring like Jay to sip leisurely through a premiere of the family's second (annual?) "wood tasting."

No, no, no! You don't taste the wood, silly. You taste wines taken directly from the casks. Unabashed virgins of the vines raised with loving care for your express pleasure.

Did I say that?

It's all part of the family's plan to lure you to their historic winery this Washington's Birthday weekend. Last year's "tasting from the wood" — that sounds better than "wood tasting" — was such an immediate success that the Concannons decided on an encore.

Thank God.

It's not your standard, run-of-the-mill affair, as though the Concannons could stoop to the ordinary, but a special offering of their two premium red wines to point out the piquant cask aging that creates distinct vintages.

"The brash, youthful reds may show translucent appearance," they say, "deep red-black color, berry or black currant flavor surrounded by heavy tannins and only a promise of things to come."

Sounds like a woman I once knew.

"Slow wood aging will bring forth the brilliant ruby color, a complexity of bouquet with subdued tannin and velvety smoothness which is soft on the palate."

So true, so true.

Shower songsters soak while some save water

Tighter taps limit waste

OAKLAND — Did you know it can take as much as 10 gallons of water to brush your teeth if you keep the tap running constantly, according to East Bay Municipal Utility District (EBMUD) statistics?

"But that figure can be cut to one-half gallon or less if you shut off water during the process of wetting the toothbrush and rinsing," said William Tinsley. He is an EBMUD Pipe Foreman in the Oakland office.

Tinsley pointed out that statistics are approximations based on average use. They should be of interest, however, in the face of mandatory rationing ushered in just last week for San Ramon, and all other communities tied to EBMUD.

In Dublin, Livermore and Pleasanton, water cutbacks are not foreseen in the near future. Officials have asked for voluntary help, however, to prevent rationing down the road.

There are numerous examples of how much water customers use, and how much they could be saving.

For instance:

Running an automatic dishwasher full cycle takes 16 gallons, short cycle, seven.

If you hand wash dishes letting water run constantly, 30 gallons will go down the drain. Washing them in one container and rinsing in another takes five.

Running an automatic washing machine full cycle will slosh 60 gallons of water on your clothes; short cycle, 27.

Would-be tenors spending excessive amounts of time vocalizing in a shower douse their vibratos 25 gallons worth. A jump in, jump out shower — taker gets spritzed with four to five gallons.

Guys running the tap full time while whittling whiskers use up 20 gallons. If they fill the basin and wash off razor in there, only one gallon is needed.

A constant flow while washing hands requires two; filling the basin, one.

Lolling in a full bathtub calls for 36 gallons; minimum level, 10 or 12.

A 25X50 foot lawn can use up 10 gallons in four to five minutes.

Flushing toilets swishes away five to seven gallons depending on the toilet tank's size. Putting a water displacement bottle in the tank can reduce water usage from four to six.

Pleasanton area pushes for guard

PLEASANTON — Gail Ruvalcaba and her neighbors are circulating petitions to obtain a crossing guard for the intersection of Kottinger Drive with Mirador Drive and Adams Way.

Traffic going 10 miles an hour over the limit combined with the lack of traffic experience in the average four or five year old could make a nasty tragedy some day, said Ruvalcaba.

Her home faces the intersection and she is thoroughly acquainted with what can happen there. For example, one day last May a motorist coming down the Kottinger Avenue hill made a left turn and kept on turning left, across Mirador Drive, over the curb, up an embankment and through Ruvalcaba's backyard fence.

"First graders had passed along that sidewalk five minutes earlier; there would have been a real tragedy if it happened then," said Ruvalcaba.

Neighbors have been concerned about the danger to schoolchildren for the past five years, but have had the attitude that they wouldn't get a crossing guard, so they have not asked for it. Now Ruvalcaba has 14 petitions checked out to neighbors and welcomes calls to her phone, 846-8960.

City Traffic Engineer Ken Lamb studied the intersection and concluded that a traffic crossing guard is not warranted. Some 90 per cent of school traffic accidents are caused by the children, said Lamb. Better traffic safety education by parents is the solution, he said. He noted that Pleasanton's two school crossing accidents both occurred when guards were on duty.

— continue discussion of the council's appeal of planning commission approval for a developer to reduce the required first stage development of a shopping center in Springtown. — consider a planning commission draft resolution denying a tentative tract map for more than 200 homes at the east end of town. Major reasons cited were the cease and desist order banning new sewer hookups, lack of capacity at the water treatment plant, excess residential density and traffic problems.

Cheese firm installing waste gear

PLEASANTON — Cheese Factory owner George Spiliotopoulos is installing waste treatment equipment at the plant and the city council will consider granting him a sewer discharge permit tomorrow night.

Spiliotopoulos has had whey trucked away for a long time, but the discharges from his plant should be treated at a much higher level than they have been in the past, the city staff has said.

With that in mind, Spiliotopoulos is installing equipment, some of it imported from Denmark, to reduce high organic levels in the waste.

He still will miss the mark on a couple of standards, but the city staff feels it's all right, as long as the actual levels come close to standards.

In a letter to City Manager Bill Edgar, Spiliotopoulos said that the Cheese Factory's current sewer charge is "in excess of $50 per month and is equivalent to that charged 8.69 homes". The staff has worked out a formula for a new permit fee for the factory based on the amount of treatment given to the products. It is not known how much the fee will be — that will depend on month-to-month plant output — but it is expected to be substantially higher than the current fee.

Valley suicide reported

A 31 year-old housewife and mother, Edith Wahrzyniak, apparently shot herself Friday evening. Pleasanton police responded to an emergency call at about 7:45 p.m. but the woman died. A suicide note was found. Further details on the family and the address were not released.

That's your opinion

A Pleasanton council person's stand against heated pools is supported, and the wisdom of this Valley's choice in water is praised, for a change. It's all on today's Editorial Page.

Energy no sweat

In 20 years the energy crisis and attendant debate over nuclear power will be moot issues, a section of the scientific community believes. Scientists at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory and elsewhere are working to perfect the production of fusion energy, which uses water as fuel to produce cheap energy with no harmful byproducts. Fusion plants could be used worldwide without fear of atomic bombs made from byproducts, so the technology would be freely available.

A smoggy day

The Cities of Livermore and San Jose were the only in the Bay Area to exceed the state's 24-hour suspended particulate level in November, according to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

The two cities leaped the limit on four days.

But the highest single 24-hour excess was Nov. 1 in Pittsburg. Only Burlingame on the San Francisco Peninsula and Gilroy south of San Jose did not exceed the state standard on that day.

"Warm, dry stagnant conditions prevailed" that month, according to the BAAPCD, "particularly during the first nine days."

State and federal sulfur dioxide standards were not exceeded, but nitrogen dioxide levels were above the limit on five days.

Grand National signups

The 31st annual Junior Grand National Livestock Exposition, Rodeo and Horse Show, designed strictly for young people, will be held April 1-13 at the San Francisco Cow Palace.

Featuring 2,000 exhibitors, the livestock segment will be April 1-5. The Junior Rodeo is April 2 and 3; the horse show April 7 to 13. Deadline for entering the Livestock Exposition is Feb. 23, the Horse Show March 18.

The livestock section is open to all 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America members. It includes classes for market steers, swine and sheep, dairy cattle and goats. There will also be a breeding show for heifers and ewes open to animal owners 9-19.

Tax forms available

California personal income tax forms are available at Assemblyman Floyd Mori's office at 1811 Santa Rita Road, Suite 228, Pleasanton. A phone request for the form may be made by calling 462-1822.

The form this year includes a low-income tax credit and a change in the renter's credit, said Mori. In the past, the credit has been based on personal income, but now it is set at a flat rate of $37, he said.

Mori also has an office at 22300 Foothill Boulevard, Hayward, Suite 305, Hayward, where the forms are available. Phone there is 538-5533.

Select a service

Residents of Contra Costa County will have a chance to say what services they need most if they attend a public meeting Monday, Feb. 14, 7:30 p.m. at the Contra Costa Water District building, 1331 Concord Ave., Concord.

The informational meeting is being sponsored by the Family and Children's Services Advisory Committee.

Chairman Mary Lou Laubscher said whose attending will have an opportunity to discuss the proposed general plan and outlook for next year's social services programs.

Three rezoning plans

Pleasanton to hold hearings

PLEASANTON — The city council will conduct public hearings on three rezoning matters at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the City Council Chambers.

The planning commission has recommended rezoning property in the block bounded by Augustine, West Angela and the future Peters Streets from commercial to low density multiple in an effort to preserve the old residential structures located there.

The commission also recommends rezoning 53 acres on the hill near Pleasanton Elementary School from multiple, single family and agricultural to a planned unit development "or any other zoning district the city council finds appropriate".

And a public hearing opened Dec. 13 to rezone 120 acres in Longview from R-1-40,000 to the hillside planned development district will be reopened. A letter from engineer Richard Braden asks for another continuance in the belief many development problems for the site can be worked out by the land's new potential buyer, L.H. International.

City Attorney Ken Scheidig will give a report on the city's message ordinance in response to Council Member William Herlihy's request for a review of it.

I-580, as it traverses this part of the Livermore Valley, has been the topic of several study sessions by the planning commission. One alternative discussed was erecting logo signs on city property near the freeway right of way. Council will consider the Lammer notification Monday.

In other business, the council will: — conduct a public hearing for a proposal to rezone properties along Trevano Road from industrial to suburban residential.

State frowns on freeway logo signs

LIVERMORE — Conclusions in a recent state department of transportation study may toss water on an idea circulating in city hall to initiate collective logo signs along the freeway, designating exits for gas, food and lodging.

The department's district director, T. R. Lammer recently wrote to City Manager Bill Parness that "an increase in the amount of signing at an interchange could cause confusion and at busy interchanges... crpatp unsafe conditions."

"Only those businesses able to afford locations nearest the interchanges would benefit from the logos," said Lammer. "The small businesses located further away would be indirectly discriminated against."

Lammer said the Traveler Information Advisory Committee had also considered placement of logo signs in a statewide traveler information system, but rejected the idea for the same reasons.

Campaign strategists at Dublin

The Times introduces the last of six candidates for the office of Honorary Mayor of the Valley — Larry Riera — chosen by unanimous acclamation to represent the Dublin Lions Club which sponsors the novel campaign. Valley service clubs begin tomorrow to see which can raise the most money for the community before the inaugural ball in May. Riera (right) and his campaign manager, Monte Lukov, Jr., have already challenged their fellow Lions in Pleasanton and Livermore with a $100 side wager on the mayor's race. Riera is a proven go-getter as veep for the Lions Club, charter member of the new San Ramon Elks lodge, member of the Livermore Eagles, Exchange Club and Dublin Chamber of Commerce. He is a musician with The Royals who appear regularly at entertainment spots throughout the valley, and he has operated Riera's Music in Dublin for seven years.

Oakland tax hinges on high court rule

The California Supreme Court said Friday an appeal court decision on the legality of Oakland's proposed tax on money earned in the city will not stand until the high court has a chance to review the matter.

The announcement sets aside a state Court of Appeal decision ruling that the proposed tax — one percent of gross annual income over $6,500 was valid. The brief order, signed by six justices without comment, granted the court hearing sought by opponents of the tax, including a labor organization, two taxpayers and others.

The tax, scheduled for implementation Jan. 1, 1978, but set for another review July 1, has caused bitter debate among city councilmen. It would apply to both residents and non-residents, except for domestics.

Labor and business spokesmen have expressed bitter opposition.

In May 1975, Alameda County Superior Court Judge Gordon Minder ruled the "employee license tax" invalid, saying no matter what it was called it was actually an income tax and the state constitution and laws prohibit a municipal income tax.

Vintages 1974 through 1976 Petite Sirah and 1972 through 1976 Cabernet Sauvignon will be offered, although the press preview featured the outstanding 1973 Petite Sirah and 1971 Cabernet Sauvignon as well.

Jealous? Tough. The wines offered at this weekend's bash will continue aging in their historic oak casks for one to three more years before bottling. The Petite Sirah spends a delightful three years on the wood, and the Cabernet Sauvignon a full five years.

Definitely sounds like that woman I knew. But onward to the business at hand, to wit, this robust reporter's "critique," if I may be so bold, of the sensuous delights in store for you.

The '73 Petite Sirah, bottled and available now, is luscious with a soft ruby character you'll love.

Would I lie to you? The '74 planned limited bottling, made from 100 per cent petite sirah grapes from the vineyard behind the winery, is rich and tannic and long lasting.

The excuse me, "standard" '74 Petite is a lighter, fruitier, almost gay wine — I didn't really say that did I? — that will prove drinkable in a short while.

All of which is not to say that I imbibed. I sipped and spit. And Ronald Reagan is a closet communist.

Needless to say, the '75 and '76 vintages are quite young. Bring toothbrush and paste for the '76 tasting.

And the Cabernets? I thought you'd never ask. The '71 presents a rich nose with brown edge to show its maturity. A long, languid after-taste lingers to lick at your libido.

It has not quite peaked in bottle aging, and will lie in your cellar for a little while longer — if you can stand the thought of leaving it there.

Who said the Livermore Valley was known only for its white wines?

The '73 vintage shows a strong, characteristically California minty nose with enough tannin in the body to promise future delights.

Ditto the '74, but with an even richer offering. Very musty. Very promising. Joe Concannon calls it a "herbaceous character."

the '75 offers a tempting, fruity nose, but an as yet immature body. (She's back.) Only time will tell.

And to think I got paid for this afternoon's outing. Didn't I?

Municipal court actions

LIVERMORE — A Pleasanton man accused of firing a pistol into a car he was following has been held to answer to the charges in Oakland Superior Court.

John Manuel Morales, 36, of 6070 Sequoia Ct., was bound over on order of Judge Mark Eaton after a preliminary hearing this week in the Livermore Municipal Court.

Morales was charged last August on a felony complaint of assault with intent to commit murder, after an incident at the 7-11 store on Hopyard Road.

Howard Davis, a 7-11 employee, told police Morales allegedly opened fire, shooting out the right rear passenger window. Glass reportedly hit Davis in the head.

When he heard the alleged gun shot, Davis said, he sped up and heard another shot. A bullet was reportedly found in his car.

Morales is scheduled for an Oakland Superior Court appearance 10:30 a.m., Feb. 22, Department 11.

In other court action: — Five men accused of beating a San Ramon man who was walking with a friend along Village Parkway in Dublin Feb. 6, are in various stages of court proceedings.

Robert William McKown, 21, of 165 Arvada Court, told police a car passed several times before he noticed it coming to a stop, with the door opening. He reportedly shouted for his friend, Mark Brian Davis, 23, of Chestnut Ct., San Ramon, to run.

Two men reportedly exited the car and hit McKown in the face, but he ran across the Parkway and onto Davona Drive where three of the men overtook him.

He said he was knocked to the ground and kicked before he noticed someone was taking a wallet from his pants pocket. McKown said the wallet contained $115.

The accused are: Rick Andrew Camy, 20, 6880 Portage Road, Dublin; Larry Allan Hetherington, 18, Allegany Blvd., Dublin; John Anthony Mendoza, 18, 6880 Portage Rd., Dublin; Kevin Bukowatz, 19, 405 Old Orchard Ct., Danville; and Steven Lawrence Boehm, 18, 7343 Kolb Place, Dublin.

CC pledged water flow

MARTINEZ — Up to 400,000 acre-feet of water intended for Southern California will be used to bail out the Bay Area including both major water districts serving Contra Costa County.

Under a memorandum of agreement detailed by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. in San Rafael Friday, the water will be used in Contra Costa mainly to relieve the salty condition of water to the Contra Costa Water District, and, when necessary, to bolster the dwindling supply of the East Bay Municipal Utility District.

Most of it, however, will go to ultra-dry Marin County, which is suffering from the consequences of turning down several environmentalist-opposed bond issues to build reservoirs as protection against dry-year water conditions.

Camy and Hetherington entered not guilty pleas Wednesday and are due for court appearances on Feb. 14 and 22, respectively, to schedule preliminary hearings.

Boehm and Mendoza are scheduled to enter pleas Feb. 22 and Bukowatz is scheduled to enter a plea Feb. 14.

Debra Ann Lawrence, 25, of Oakland, was arraigned Wednesday on charges she beat two sheriff's deputies while she was an inmate at Santa Rita prison. She is scheduled to enter a plea Monday.

Bryce Aldon Frazier, 22, of Dublin, was arraigned Tuesday on charges he possessed stolen scuba diving equipment from a residence at 7704 Ironwood, Dublin.

Police stopped his vehicle to serve a warrant on an indecent exposure charge when they reportedly saw tanks, regulators, a diving knife, wetsuit, tote bag and some marijuana in the car. Value of the reportedly stolen items was placed at $580.

Frazier is scheduled to enter a plea Monday.

Andrew John Barnett, 21, of 5127 Sundance, Livermore, was arraigned on cocaine possession charges and is scheduled to enter a plea Monday.

Police said the arrest came after a traffic accident, when they went to the hospital to serve Barnett with an outstanding warrant. During a search they allegedly found a red capsule containing white powder.

William Gary Hance, 23, of San Francisco, was arraigned on charges of having a machete, two knives, a .357 magnum revolver and marijuana in his car when he visited Santa Rita prison Feb. 5. The items were discovered during a routine gate search at the gate.

Foothill auto crash

This small sports convertible ended up with major damage after a collision with a larger car at the intersection of Foothill Road and Castlewood Drive on Friday, about 3:30 p.m. A Pontiac, driven by John J. Mingarelli of Fremont, collided with this sports car driven by Terri Lynn Knight of Pleasanton. There were no major injuries reported. California Highway Patrol officer H. Spikes, center, investigated the mishap. (Times photo)

Oak Tree Center designs face city council review

PLEASANTON — The planning commission's design review board last week approved Chris Berattis' Oak Tree Center designs, including the controversial median breaks for a left turn lane from Hopyard Road.

The plan still faces a review by the city council, which expressed concern about the Hopyard Road median break.

A few residents in the past have objected that if left turns are allowed into the center from Hopyard Road, traffic will back up and create a hazardous condition near the entrance to Sports and Recreation Park.

Director of Engineering Services Don Sooby said that permitting no median break "is the best safety situation," but would make it impossible to give access to the shopping center from Hopyard Road southeast-bound. The plan as proposed does afford adequate safety for citizens, said Sooby.

Berattis said he read all 45 conditions attached to his plan so far and commented that "it probably is the highest number ever attached to any one or two applications in this city."

Residents concerned about the center's impact on the neighborhood were in attendance, but only Stan Callon spoke. He wanted assurance the 1.8 acre vacant lot next to the center won't be used for impromptu parking.

LLL slates quake symposium

Ever wonder about earthquakes? What causes them? Will we ever be able to predict when and where an earthquake will strike?

These questions and many more will be the subject of a symposium sponsored by Chabot College - Valley Campus and given in the auditorium of the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, Building 123, near the West gate.

The symposium will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on three successive Tuesdays: Feb. 22, March 1 and March 8. Each meeting will be open to the public, neither registration nor fees are required.

The symposium will attempt to explore and answer the above questions and others such as can anything be done to your house to reduce the damage that might be caused by an earthquake? Are the city and county and state prepared to handle an emergency caused by an earthquake? and does earthquake talk and earthquake prediction effect real estate values and business?

For more information, call the Chabot-Valley Campus.

Dr. Barbara Mertes, Dean of the Valley Campus, will present the fifth in the series of faculty lectures at Valley Campus this year.

The general theme of the lectures is "Between the Wars."

Dr. Mertes has elected to discuss the life and poetry of Edna St. Vincent Millay, who flashed into prominence in the twenties both as a poet and a liberated woman of her day. Her life and poetry were unique expressions of the age, and Dr. Mertes titles her talk, "Edna St. Vincent Millay, the Lady Says No."

Dr. Mertes' talk will be given at the Valley Campus on Feb. 16 at 2:30 p.m. in Room 201. All lectures in this faculty series are open to the entire community.

Fire arms handling offered by Chabot

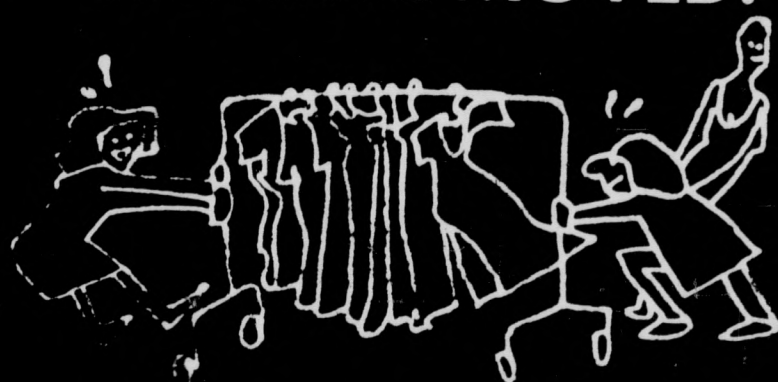

Chabot College - Valley Campus will offer a fire arms qualifications course (Administration of Justice 120-99), designed for security personnel stating Saturday, Feb. 26.

The classroom portion will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 2:50 p.m. on the 26th in Room 503 at the Valley Campus. The weapons qualification portion will be held the following Saturday morning, March 5, for two hours at a local firing range.

The class will cover various statutes governing the carrying of weapons by security personnel. In addition, the nomenclature including the description and function of weapons will be discussed.

Students may register for this class at 8 a.m. on the 26th in Building 100 at the Valley Campus. The class is open to any student who is a high school graduate or is over 18 years of age.

Public schools

It was in that period of our Valley's struggle with "fundamental education" and the parallel emergence of the private school that this newspaper wondered if "public education as we know it might not be coming to an end."

That question arises again, for new reasons that only compound the problem of a system that seeks to be all things to all students, but in reality is pleasing fewer and fewer parents.

Now it's not even satisfying the teachers.

The State Supreme Court's recent directive as to "total equality" of all public school financing could provide us with a conflict in taxation and in personal choice that might prove too much for many taxpaying parents. This resistance would be particularly evident in the suburbs where families selected their new home — often at great personal sacrifice — because of that community's public schools.

As the number of families disenchanted with public education swells, how long will that system — accounting as it does for over half of our property tax burden — survive?

The Supreme Court of the United States has already held that "education is not a constitutional guarantee." The next step, to "freedom from school taxation without local control," seems not too far away.

As the school boards and the teacher representatives within our own communities struggle through the impasse of "contract demands," some one should remember that public education is not the popular choice it once was; nor is it a public mandate.

Those of us who see tax - supported "equality of educational opportunity" as still this society's best bet can only hope that reasonable people with realistic goals will prevail through this difficult test facing the public school systems.

Water wisdom

While any drought is a catastrophe that must hurt us all, still it is worthy of note — in the water crisis now confronting much of the Bay Area — that this Valley's planners did something right, for a change.

The State Aqueduct System which is the basis for virtually all domestic and agricultural water needs from Dublin to Livermore, is one of the few systems not facing serious shortage of supply these days. That is good news for local families, for farmers and for commerce.

There was a time when detractors rapped the Valley leadership for "not joining up with EBMUD when you had the chance." The lower portion of San Ramon Valley was in fact spun off from VCSD in order to tap into the "softer" EBMUD system. Now San Ramon, along with all other customers of the East Bay water district, is forced to accept strict water rationing, at least through the rest of this year.

Water anywhere is a commodity that must belong to people everywhere. The temporary "abundance" which customers of the Zone 7 - State Aqueduct link enjoy must be — and surely will be — shared with others throughout the east and south Bay. Neither can people in Livermore, in Pleasanton and in Dublin ease up for a moment on the self - imposed water rationing which must be practiced by every Californian.

But, like we say, there are so many critics prepared to heave Valleys of Livermore and Amador "what you did wrong," it is nice to make note of something that was actually done right. Contracting with the State Aqueduct System and then financing Zone 7 to distribute that imported water throughout the Valley was a sound investment; it never looked more sound than it does right now.

The week in retrospect

School campaigns

One of the issues certain to gain considerable discussion at candidates nights in the Pleasanton and Amador school districts is course content.

Little has been written to date on the school board campaigns in the two districts but the fact is significant changes could occur in both five-man trustee bodies.

Three positions will be open on both boards at the March 8 elections. Vying for the Pleasanton board are Al Dutchover, James Griffen, Nancy Hawtrey, Ronald Ott, Dennis Reidy and Earnestine Schneider. Amador high school district candidates are Wayne Barnes, Frank Damerval, Jack Delaney and Gene Hinton.

Among those programs and individual classes that will draw questions from audiences and comments from candidates are the Early Childhood Education program, graduation requirements and Walnut Grove's three - programs - in - one - school.

Admittedly, there are many other issues dealing with contract talks, the logistics of student housing and busing, communication between administration, teacher and parent, and district finances. But the curriculum or course content subject is one that intrigues us, especially in looking at what has occurred at Walnut Grove School.

We make reference to it not as any suggestion toward reevaluation but in hopes more district residents, especially the candidates, will take the time to learn more about pod-team teaching, fundamental, and open education concepts.

It seems evident that the "Walnut Grove experiment" (Principal Tony Huff will love that last word) is the direction elementary schools are or should be moving.

On the one-hand we hear pleadings for a return to "the basics" while others say course content should be more reflective of the times, more realistic.

It would be a shame if the campaign progressed without any in-depth discussions of curriculum and staffing.

While contract talks get most of the "ink," what and how our children are learning are the bread and butter issues. Parents are not nearly as interested in administration - teacher squabbles as they are in what their child does between 8:30 and 3 Monday through Friday.

Two candidates nights for Pleasanton and Amador aspirants have been firming up to date— Vintage Hills School on March 1 at 7:30 p.m. for Pleasanton and Harvest Park School library on March 3 at 7:30 p.m. for Pleasanton and Amador.

Juniors say 'Thank you'

Editor, The Times:

The Pleasanton Junior Women's Club would like to express our appreciation to the people of Pleasanton for their help with the Community Christmas program. This year we supplied 56 families with canned goods, fresh produce and meat certificates. A total of $900.22 being spent on the food, clothing and mailing expenses out of the $906.22 which was collected from the community. The extra six dollars will go into the account for next year.

Special thank yous go to Jake Foster of Citizen Savings bank for absorbing our printing costs, Frank Vassallo for donating the produce, Lucky's and Irby's for the 10% discounts. Thanks to the Pleasanton School District for the use of Walnut Grove School and all the elementary and junior high schools for their participation in the canned food drive.

We would also like to thank Gail Geary and the Jay Cee Wives for the truly marvelous job they did providing and wrapping all those gifts. We extend our sincere appreciation to the Jay Cees and their wives who helped the day of the basket pick-up when we so desperately needed the extra hands.

Two views of water woe

Editor, The Times:

This state and those adjoining us are running out of a natural resource called water. Besides using water for personal use and to keep the yards green and the swimming pool full, water is also used to generate power for all our electrical appliances.

This summer when it is hot, what are people going to do when the air conditioner cannot be used, the tv cannot be watched and all those other appliances that we now have as necessary items cannot be turned on because there is no electricity.

What are families going to do when parents are laid off, no place to go because of fire hazards due to no water. Does this mean the family members are going to have to actually talk to one another and perhaps entertain each other and even do things together. Hope the families are geared up to handle this heavy new situation being forced upon them because of the drought.

As an aside, what are the local recreation departments planning for residents when the evenings are long and no place to go on the weekends.

Editor, The Times:

As a local taxpayer and general supporter of the expansion of the VCSD facilities through my vote I have finally come to the end of the so-called rope. I have lived through the delays in action, the loss of an almost free park in San Ramon, construction problems, playing games with the School districts, non-support of the positive voters of the district, and other numerous problems. Now, before the board really met, before contacting local organization involved, and before any announcement to the public the gas was shut down to the one local pool open (used by the local AAU swim club and open recreational swimming and soon to be used by the local school district for mens high school swimming).

The issue at hand is not conservation but actually what was behind the gas shutoff. The VCSD did not receive a directive from the PUC (Public Utilities Commission) but the sign on the local pool says this is why the gas was shut off. Something is wrong here, don't you agree?

As for conservation, yes indeed it is needed. Why doesn't our illustrious board contact all the local recreational and school districts and set up a program of local cooperation and sharing of facilities. Then, certain local facilities can be shut off and others remain open. With this sort of an approach, local AAU clubs can share pools, recreational swimming can continue, and the men's high school swim programs can continue.

With the above in mind I hope our local leaders in the future will take time to think before acting rashly and causing much distress and irritation.

Reckless driver ed

Sure are a lot of crazy drivers on the road these days!

Usually, they are people so wrapped up in a hectic schedule, they don't really pay attention to other traffic — or else they just don't care.

Age isn't necessarily a factor, but two separate incidents in one day recently showed this reporter that something is wrong in our system of educating new drivers.

The first happening was an accident in front of Granada High School, where an 18 year old transient from Hayward was reportedly travelling at least 50 miles an hour in a school zone before hitting a Granada student's car.

No one was injured, thank goodness. But, the inattention and lack of awareness could have had worse results. Hundreds of students were leaving school.

The skid marks showed a car out of control when the brakes were applied. What if that vehicle landed on the sidewalk?

The close of that work day found this writer taking a pleasant drive along scenic, winding Vallecitos Road, past beautiful fields, vineyards and rolling hills. Birds were flying nearby; sheep were grazing in the fields and life seemed pleasant.

Ahead of me was a driver education car from the San Ramon school district. Approaching more strenuous curves, the car amazingly sped up to speeds of 40 and 50 instead of slowing down to the posted 30 and 35 zones.

When the instructor car pulled off the road at the top of the hill, near the scenic overlook, I found the opportunity to let a young man behind the wheel know about the blood spilled in numerous accidents along that road.

The youngster listened politely, absorbing the lesson, but his instructor shrugged his shoulders and offered the excuse, "I was urging him to keep up with traffic."

Is this the quality of driver education in our public schools, that young people are taught to forget the safety rules of the road? The problem is not just the young — they are taught by adults. The instructor in the passenger seat who condones unsafe speeding is only part of the bad example set by adult drivers.

Less than five minutes after the encounter with the student and his instructor, I was back on the road to go home. My rear view mirror caught the reflection of a white panel truck weaving in and out of close traffic.

When it couldn't pass me, it tailgated instead. When it did pass me, I saw an adult who was showing any teen drivers in sight how to be a potential killer — or a future statistic on the Highway Patrol's books.

Let us sing your praises mighty Dublin quencher, and smite your foes.

This is no time to make fun of water.

Of course, sacred liquid, you have problems. Our neighbors say you ate holes in the pots and pans. After showering they feel like Caesar salad — all oily like. Guests in our home prefer liquor straight — complaining your ice cubes make Scotch taste like swimming pool back flush.

You won't hear any of that here, oh revered refresher. I love your milky, bubbly countenance, with the fizzy little minerals that look like thousands of tiny time pills exploding.

Ymmm Ymmm. Good.

You are here to go along with our daily bread, and you have delivered us from drought. What's more, you have enriched our lives in myriad ways, Dublin water.

For instance, you introduced Zone 7, your wholesaler, into the humdrum of existence. For all we know they should call it Zone Twilight, but then again, who's complaining? They keep you flowing, don't they?

We hear that Zone 7 may enter the sewage business. Your critics, sweet pearlescent purifier, say Zone 7 already has. Don't you listen, though.

We need you. We love you.

After all, you taught us about water softeners. Who ever heard of water softeners before moving to Dublin. It was a real education, your wetness.

Competing firms chased us like college recruiters. They plied us with backyard bypasses and toilet bypasses and asked us to sign on the dotted line.

After we did the softening tank burst. Remember that, splendid splasher? You were there. You washed all that funny brown gunk into the dirt.

Strange things grow there now. They have tentacles and only one eye in the middle of their foreheads.

The best part is they grow without aid from you, your wet-and-wild majesty. For some reason they thrive on Boscoe.

If only we could teach farmers to irrigate with the stuff, and bathers to wash in it. Then we could save more of you, Dublin water. Perhaps we could even dispatch you across the bay where you're needed. Wise guys say they'd send you right back, but it's not so.

Even if they did. Who cares? You may not be the best, but you're all we got. We'll take all we can, too.

Valentine's Day, it is said, was given us by the Romans, in tribute to Juno, the goddess of women and marriage, and to Pan, the god of nature.

(There are reportedly still some who prefer to call Feb. 14 "Junopan Day," but they are few in number.)

Personally, I think we are lucky to have Valentine's Day still with us ... given the uncertainty of womanhood these days, not to mention the poor condition of marriage.

There was a time when spreading around your Valentine goodies was considered very provocative, even sexy.

On the other hand, the lady betrothed was supposed to be well freed from such valentinish lusts.

*Will you my lover be, til death us do part
To triumph together in good times and bad,
Or would you prefer that we get a head start,
Love now, pay later, and to hell with old dad.*

The Romans gathered together all young lovers on the 15th day of each February, thence to celebrate "the feast of Lupercalia." That was before they lions had Lupercalia for lunch, and after the Roman city manager had nixed Junopan Day. It was Pope Gelasius who figured out a cool angle for turning the pagan Roman festival into a Christian feast day.

"Let us declare St. Valentine to be the patron saint of love, and hereafter Valentine's Day will be one more excuse to close all parochial schools for the day, and allow us clerics to play golf," he said.

The fact that St. Valentine was already having his day on the 14th of the month, rather than the 15th, was no problem. Pope Gelasius decreed that henceforth lovers will do their thing on the 14th of February, Valentine's Day, and that was that. (Pope's had considerably more clout in those days — more even than city managers.)

Historians ever since have been trying to track down the true identity of St. Valentine. The prevailing opinion is that Val was a friendly neighborhood priest who got was a caught up in the Roman Games.

This bit of knowledge is terribly important to the Hallmark Card people, for it is they who must now find fresh design through which to stimulate our love buds. Since I have yet to see a Hallmark card with a loving lion asking a robed cleric ... "Will you be my Valentine, for lunch?" it is to be resumed that Hallmark does not go along with the martyred priest story.

My own introduction to Valentine's Day came when Tommy Harper (her full name was Thomasine) sent a spit ball across the room and onto my left ear with the help of an elastic band launcher. When I unravelled the messy message, it said ... "You wanna be my Valentine, you jerk?"

I turned down Tommy Harper's invitation then, and I rejected several more offers throughout my grammar school era ... I being a boy of the male species convinced that girls were never to be trusted, particularly in matters of the heart, or in launching spit balls.

My intent, in all this, was not to regale you with ancient history, but rather to reveal an updated list of Valentine's Day wishes that I would dispatch to those near and dear to my heart, and to yours.

Responding to the heavy burdens of municipal leadership, I would give to Mayor Helen a lovely old tree ... but NOT one of the elbus leonardus species; to Mayor Robert of the City of Planned Progress a plan of many, moveable pieces ... each heart - shaped so that all may love Pleasanton's mode of whatever size, on any given day;

To the boys and girls of VCSD land goes a box of chocolate - coated efflu nuts, lovingly gift wrapped by Juris Prudence;

To each of our hard - working school superintendents a pair of pink ear muffs, along with a note from teacher explaining "you might as well be comfortable in your tunnel";

To managers of all sorts — coming, going and just stuck — lifetime pass on BART ... which isn't really going anywhere, either;

And to columnists, city hall reporters, letter writers and all others subject to the Bureaucratic Blue Pencil, an eraser styled by Houdini ... guaranteed to free you from all your frustrations;

And to you, dear sweet untroubled all forgiving all patient reader, a a bound copy of The Complete Works of Lupercalia. I thought you might enjoy knowing what love was all about, before they started feeding us to the lions.

Dublin H₂O

Ode to Dublin Water

Oh great murky H₂O, semi-sweet nectar of the gods that swells our tap in over-abundance, while the rest of the world beseeches Heaven with tongues parched and cracking, we tend humble thanks this morn.

Thirst-slaking potation of Southern Alameda County, we are joyous at your plentiful presence, and loathsome of critics who charge that you spring forth from the crankcase of a '56 Chevy, and that the head on a glass of you rivals a 16-ounce Schlitz.

Blessed are you for flowing in the face of cretins — you know — the ones who say your wells are dug by Texaco, your chemical additives produced by Kaopectate.

Don't the fools know a gallon of you would bring a black market fortune in Mill Valley?

No hot pools

The speech only took a minute, but it was Pleasanton Vice - mayor Joyce LeClaire's finest hour. She was the lone vote against heating up the Amador Community Park swimming pool. Turning on the pool won't have much effect on the natural gas supply for the rest of the country per se, but it was the principle of the thing that mattered to LeClaire.

Most of the East is suffering real misery with people freezing to death and more than a million thrown out of work and all the economic suffering that involves, said LeClaire. The least we in sunny California can do is to deny ourselves the privilege of a swimming pool for awhile, even if it does hurt our lifestyle, she argued.

LeClaire has spoken out on other human issues, too, but this was an unpopular stand she didn't have to take, but did in the cause of idealism. And Director of Recreation and Human Resources Bob Caporusso, who recommended against opening the pool for the same reasons advocated by LeClaire, ought to get credit, too, for a noble, if unpopular, stand.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — My grandfather is 69 and has been badly crippled from rheumatoid arthritis. He also has high blood pressure and gout. He takes Aldactone for his blood pressure and other medicines for his gout and arthritis.

He confided to me about a problem he has been having with his breasts and wondered if it affected other older men or if there was any danger of cancer. His nipples feel painful and tender to touch and so does the area around them.

Is this because of his diseases or medicines and is there any reason for him to worry about cancer of the breast?

DEAR READER — Rarely men do have cancer of the breast and any man who develops a lump of the breast area should have an examination. Young boys sometimes have a small lump for a year or two that is not clinically important even though it may be disturbing.

The sensations your grandfather complains about, without a lump, are not an indication of cancer. The most likely cause is the Aldactone. It does stimulate the breasts in some instances. The enlarging breasts may be tender. He should discuss it with his doctor and if it bothers him too much, perhaps he can be switched to another medicine.

Since your grandfather has several illnesses his doctor may be reluctant to make changes if his present program is working well. Your grandfather should stay on his medicines and not make any changes on his own. Despite the concern he has, living with the complication of Aldactone is better than the consequences of high blood pressure.

If your grandfather has any extra body fat he should lose it. I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure, to give you more information. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you tell me why a 16-year-old boy would steal? He takes things from stores or his friends' homes. He is not denied most things we can afford, but he comes home with radios, tools, clothes, watches. I don't know how he can do it and not get caught. What can we do to help?

DEAR READER — When a teenager steals it has to be evaluated in terms of the reason. If he steals once, because his buddies dared him to take something, that may not be so important even though it is wrong. But, if it is repeated, and particularly if there is little or no need to do so.

Your boy should have an evaluation by a professional to see if he has any important psychiatric problems.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "WHY DOES A DOUGHNUT HAVE A HOLE?"
A. THE HOLE IN THE DOUGHNUT ALLOWS THE DOUGH TO COOK MORE THOROUGHLY, MAKING THE DOUGHNUT MORE DIGESTIBLE.

The hole in the doughnut isn't just something to eat around. Without the hole, a doughnut would be a round, flat, doughy cake with a soggy center.

At one time the doughnut had no hole. The first fried cakes were brought to colonial America by the early Dutch settlers.

The idea of putting the hole in the doughnut was invented in the 19th century by a sea captain named Hanson Gregory. He enjoyed eating doughnuts, as then made, but they sometimes gave him indigestion.

He found that by cutting a hole in the middle, this allowed the dough to cook more thoroughly and the doughnuts were more digestible.

To make doughnuts, the doughnut maker puts sweetened dough into a doughnut machine that punches out slender rings of dough. The dough rings are then cooked in a vat of boiling oil until they are puffy and crisp.

And once you eat the doughnut, the hole is gone!

In Monday's article we mentioned that Ted Lightner and Waldemar von Zedtwitz were two of the three players who invented the forcing two-bid. Today they are in their 80s and, while they don't play much bridge, they still do mighty well when they come to the table.

They bid today's hand about forty years ago, but their bidding may well serve as a model today.

There was nothing wrong with Ted's two bid and when Waldy gave him an immediate raise Ted decided to explore for the slam. Hence his rebid to four diamonds.

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — The long, drawn out battle over a county jail in Hayward could come to a head next week and allow the county to "zero in" on plans for replacing the Santa Rita facility near Pleasanton.

Board of supervisors chairman Charles Santana of Hayward, caught between his constituents and the board's long standing plans for a jail next to the south county court house, has called for a public hearing next Tuesday "to bring this Hayward pre-trial detention facility to a vote."

But while Santana wanted only a discussion of the Hayward site pending completion of the Oakland jail, Valley representative Valerie Raymond and north county supervisor John George pushed for and won a full blown discussion on "pre-trial detention facilities. Period," to quote Raymond.

"They're related," George added. "If you have a pre-trial facility close to the courts in Oakland, you'll have a pre-trial facility close to the courts in Hayward."

George, elected with Raymond last November, campaigned on a pledge not to build more jails. Raymond said in her campaign she wanted to streamline the judicial system to eliminate the need for more pre-trial jails.

The sprawling Santa Rita jail, berated by county grand juries, sheriff Tom Houchins and a host of politicians, holds both pre-trial and sentenced prisoners who must, by state law, be separated at all times. The ensuring segregation in the former World War II navy base reaps problems for jail administrators, officials say.

Postponing the Hayward jail could save the county millions of dollars since recent changes in state law and court proceedings might decrease the need for another jail, Santana said.

That time and money could allow the county to "zero in" on the Santa Rita jail.

Santana said he thinks there already are three votes against building the Hayward jail next to the Winton Avenue county complex.

Only supervisors Joseph Bort and Fred Cooper have ridden the Hayward jail plans since their inception.

Alameda County Bureau
OAKLAND — Valerie Raymond's campaign oratory reached more than her constituents in her successful bid for first district supervisor.

Former board chairman Fred Cooper, unbribed by the duties of the chair for the past month, has launched a campaign for more communications between the board and voters.

Taking a leaf from Raymond's campaign literature, he wants the county to connect three additional telephones to a tape recorded message that would clarify the board's proceedings.

"We have received a number of comments from people who claim that they cannot get our minutes, cannot understand them, and have trouble knowing what the board is doing," he says.

He suggests the recording start Monday evening and run through 3 p.m., Tuesday, advising callers of changes in the board's agenda and any anticipated moves by supervisors.

From 3 p.m., Tuesday to 5 p.m., Wednesday, callers would be told of the board's decisions on Tuesday's agenda.

During the balance of the week, the "hotline" would give "standard recorded messages about where people can call for particular items," says Cooper. It could also be used to answer questions in emergencies, or to advertise different county programs.

Alameda County Superior Courts have a similar system that advises lawyers of tentative rulings on the court calendar.

The county clerk's office already has a summary of the board's minutes. It is published weekly in a local legal tabloid.

The full board referred the idea to county administrator Loren Enoch and board clerk Jack K. Pool for further study.

A total of 392,122 trekked through the gates at the Fairgrounds last year for various and sundry events, but the count though impressive is short of the bellweather year of 1974.

In the latter year, interim activities at the Fairgrounds, which include all those aside from the two-week County Fair, drew 295,114. Grand total for '74 was 413,739.

Fairgrounds personnel not only count attendance at each and every event but add in horse owners, trainers, grooms, and residents of the Fairgrounds trailer court at a $30-per-day rate. Interim activities total for last year was 271,672 or 21,500 less than 1974.

A revised check of individual event attendance for 1976 reveals an event held July 24, conducted by the Church of Jesus Christ, Latter day Saints, drew a yearly high of 6,300.

The annual Labor Day picnic sponsored by the Central Labor Council of Alameda County attracted 6,000 Sept. 6 to take runner-up honors. The Labor Day picnic in past years has usually had the highest single day attendance of any event at the Fairgrounds.

A Castro Valley Mineral and Gem Society show on March 6 and the Bay Area Horseless Carriage's annual auto swap on Feb. 29 tied for third in single-day attendance with 5,000 each.

Other events drawing in excess of 2,000 in one day were as follows: EWATOM LIN KINH Appaloosa Club stallion show on Jan. 25, 2,600; Lloyd Lowry fire fighters show on Jan. 31, 2,000; March of Dimes event on March 13, 3,200; Castro Valley Mineral and Gem show on March 7, 3,000; Harvest Park School pageant on April 29, 2,100; Ladybug Boutique craft show the same day, 2,100;

Lloyd Lowry fireman's benefit show on May 23, 3,500; Fireman's Muster on June 6, 2,000; Pleasanton School graduation on June 10, 3,000; Oakland Moose Lodge picnic on Aug. 1, 2,000; President's Band sponsored by Livermore Jaycees, Oct. 15, 3,000.

Also, Jamboree Productions Unlimited CB radio operators show on Oct. 22, 2,000; Big Wheels for March of Dimes on Oct. 23, 4,000; CB radio operators show on Oct. 24, 4,000; Foothill High Boosters Club event on Oct. 30, 4,200; Voice of the Valley CB radio operators dance on Nov. 6, 3,000.

The report also includes monthly attendance figures for the roller skating, miniature golf, health club, tennis and golf concessions on the grounds plus attendance at the Amador-Livermore Valley Historical Society museum.

2:20.2 first-place time in the 200-yard back.

Dugan stars in Glad defeat

HAYWARD — Chabot College dug an early hole, failing to win a match until former Dublin High star Kevin Dugan won an 8-7 decision over Palomar's Steve Pali as the Gladiators dropped a 29-9 state junior college meet wrestling championship to the Comets here last night.

Dugan's win, coming in the 177-pound class, was a masterful comeback. Although wrestling against a heavier Pali, Dugan sliced a 5-0 deficit with two take-downs and a penalty point to tie the match.

Putting together another takedown and a final point at the buzzer for "Riding time", Dugan took the 8-7 win to give the packed gym something to cheer about for the first time all night.

After 190-pounder Curtis Bledsoe decided Palomar's Craig Gordan 9-0 to remain undefeated on the year, former Granada High wrestler Ron Freeman lost a tough 2-0 heavyweight decision to Allan Tanner, the second-ranked heavy-weight in the state. The loss was only Freeman's second of the year.

Chabot's troubles started early, beginning with the very first match. 118-pounder Jose Flores gave up two penalty points in losing to Palomar's Edwin Bilbeck, 3-2.

Tadd Overmire then followed with a stunning pin of Chabot's Joe Stallworth in the 126-pound division, the pin coming with just 31 seconds remaining in the match.

The Gladiators were lucky to get away with only two points in the first five matches. Those came when Mark Needham (134) took advantage of a stalling call against Palomar's Richard Fileman for Chabot's first two points of the night.

But hard times hit again in the 142-pound bout, as unheralded Nathan Holland scored a tight 7-4 win over Brad Vadnais, giving Palomar a 14-2 lead. Holland scored a takedown late in the third period to gain the decision.

Palomar went ahead 20-2 in the ensuing match, off husky Mike Berger's pin of Bill Willie at 2:07 of the second round. Willie had played the state champion tough before the pin, holding Berger scoreless until 10 seconds were left in the opening period. The pin, coming while Berger was holding a 4-1 lead, was a surprise in itself, coming literally after a takedown.

Chabot nine edges Marin for title

HAYWARD — Errors and some potent hitting were the order of the day as Chabot College's baseball team took a nail-biting 13-12 win over College of Marin for the Chabot Invitational championship here.

The losers slugged 17 hits to 12 for Chabot but committed five errors, four of them in the sixth inning.

The Gladiators jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning as Marin starter Rod Lyons walked the first three batters. A single by Dan Pearson and a sacrifice brought in the three runs.

However, the North Bay team came right back with seven runs of its own in the bottom half of the first.

The losers belted five hits in the stanza including a two-RBI single by Terry Durakes.

Chabot came back in the third and scored five times to take a brief 8-7 lead.

But the Marin club came back in their half of the third and scored the tying run. Ron Harsen opened with a double and scored on two throwing errors.

The score stood at 8-all until the sixth stanza when Chabot took advantage of Marin's miscues for a five-run explosion.

Errors by the Marin shortstop and second baseman plus singles Pearson, Tom Parker and a walk to Foxworthy accounted for the five runs.

The losers threw a scare into the Gladiators when they scored four times in the seventh stanza.

Don Supple opened the inning with a double to center field and Mike Madera brought him home with a booming triple to right field. A single by Jim Grayson, a double by John Wynn and another single by Chris Purdy scored the remaining runs.

The game was called after eight innings because of darkness but not before the losers threatened to score again.

Supple reached first on a throwing error. After Durakes fanned Madera slammed a single and Grayson walked. With the bases loaded Wynn grounded out to Pearson at third base to end the game.

Earlier in the day Chabot was beaten by San Joaquin Delta, 9-1, as the Glad pitcher gave up 11 walks.xgln Friday action Chabot edged Skyline 5-4 and trounced Marin 21-6.

Warriors stunned

SEATTLE — For the second night in a row the Golden State Warriors built up a big first-half lead only to see it disappear.

Unlike Thursday night's win over Denver, however, Friday night's game with Seattle resulted in a 114-107 overtime defeat for the Warriors.

Perhaps the main reason the Warriors lost was the six-point output of star Rick Barry. Phil Smith led the Warriors with 25 points and Jamaal Wilkes added 22.

Rae's shot gives Raiders tight win

The Oakland Raiders played off-season basketball games in order to keep in shape and make a little money.

The fact they are the National Football League champions helps to bring in the crowds.

Well, the Raiders brought in the crowd Friday night at Granada High School and also received a scare in the process, barely eking out a 94-92 win over the Livermore All-Stars on a last-minute jump shot by reserve quarterback Mike Rae.

"Yes, this helps us to keep in shape," admitted Art Thoms, Raider defensive lineman who played center Friday night before spraining an ankle near the end of the first half. "I played a little bit of basketball in high school back in New Jersey but not in college."

The All-Stars, a group of Livermore Recreation players and former Granada and Livermore High School athletes, were coached by Ernie Rodriguez, who got the players together in about a week's span.

"We gave them a good fight," Rodriguez said. "Both teams were taking the game seriously."

The All-Stars used 20 men and this aided them in making up an early 11-2 deficit.

The Raiders led 23-14 at the first-quarter break and 51-38 at halftime. However, the All-Stars' depth and some brilliant shooting by Brian May, who tanked 20 points for the evening, gradually made up the difference in the second half. May scored 14 of his

Larson gets win

SAN JOSE — San Jose State dropped every game it played against Santa Clara last year. Former Amador Valley High School pitcher Mark Larson made sure it wouldn't happen again this time around.

Larson, SJ's only southpaw pitcher, relieved 4 1/2 innings and was credited with the win in the Spartans' 8-6 victory in the first game of a doubleheader yesterday afternoon here.

San Jose also took the nightcap, 7-2. In the day's first win, Larson entered the game with two outs in the third inning and two men on. SJS trailed 5-0 at the time. He struck out Gordie Hahn and went four more innings of shutout ball before tiring. In that time his teammates scored eight runs.

SF tops Chabot

SAN FRANCISCO — Harold Brown fired in 30 points to spark City College of San Francisco past Chabot 91-79 here Friday night in a Golden Gate Conference basketball game.

Chabot is now 1-10 in GGC play while the Rams are 8-3.

The Gladiators led 48-44 at the intermission but SF came back on Brown's shooting and the playmaking of James Sheppard.

EBAL roundup

Pokes keep up with AV after SR pasting

Brian Schweiger can move to the hoop with or without the ball. Any opposing team foolish enough to foul him is giving away a basket.

The Livermore sophomore center fully blossomed as the Pokes remained in a tie for the East Bay Athletic League lead with a 51-31 win over San Ramon Monday evening in the Cowboy snake pit.

Fouls dominated the other EBAL contests as Monte Vista ran past stumbling Granada 80-74, California whistle-stopped their way to a 70-57 victory over slumping Foothill and Amador Valley was awesome in doubling up Dublin, 84-44.

Cruising to their ninth straight EBAL contest to run their slate to 9-2 the Cowboys received a 24-point effort from Schweiger, offsetting a sub-par night from ace Tim Jenkins, who scored just ten points. Jenkins, who fouled out at the third quarter buzzer after attempting to rebound a missed breakaway lay-in by Schweiger, didn't score at all in the final half.

Schweiger scored many points on straight drives to the hoop, while hitting a perfect eight-for-eight from the free throw line.

"He played against a tough competitor," said "Poke" coach John Jones, "and Brian just really competed well. We had Jenkins out in the third quarter, but (Jim) Rogers came off the bench and did a good job."

Rogers came in just after the Wolves cut a 38-25 Livermore lead down to 38-36 in less than two minutes. However, the Pokes came right back with an 11-0 spurt of their own to safely enter the final quarter with a 48-38 lead.

"We hit some free throws near the end," Jones said of his team's continued deliberance even after Jenkins had fouled out. "We were just looking for the good shot."

SR's Mike Campbell did an excellent job on Jenkins, drawing three offensive fouls and leading the Wolves in scoring with 13 points. Coach Russ Critchfield, Though, was upset with the Wolves' comeback woes.

"We made a nice comeback," Critchfield admitted, "but when our team has a comeback, we seem to relax and say, 'Oh wow, we're back.' They took advantage of us by scoring ten points in the last two minutes of the quarter."

The Wolves never had the lead in the game, trailing 15-11 and 29-23 in the first two stanzas. They hurt their cause considerably by missing easy inside shots, evidenced by a 31% shooting mark on 21 of 66 attempts. They missed their first 11 shots of the game.

The Cowboys, however, hit on 27 of 45 for a blistering 6% clip.

press against the fast Mustangs in Alamo, giving up the ball frequently in the opening stanza and falling behind 14-2 early and 27-12 by the quarter's end.

MV utilized a quick fast break and kept their margin throughout the contest. The Mats, who crept to within eight points on a number of occasions in the last half, simply could not break the ice and could only oull as close as the final point spread playing with a makeshift lineup.

The free-for-all foul fiesta was on, as seven players fouled out of the game: Ken Krey, Mike Tierney, and Bob Devincenzi for MV and Dan Lambert, Joey Wujek, Steve Robison and John Cassidy for Granada.

Lambert played a strong game by scoring 26 points, 12 in the final quarter when wujek was held in check. Joey finished the game with 15 markers. Dave Cowan played the pivot well in leading the Mustangs with 22 points. Cassidy spurned his usual bench role and played a spirited game for the Mats, scoring nine points. Jeff Evert swished for ten points.

California received a superb 28-point effort from guard Larry Walters to climb out of the cellar with their second win of the year, tying them with the Falcons for sixth place.

Walters combined a scorching drive with an eye for the outside to score his points. Chuck Cary and Craig Cline also hit in double figures for the Bears at 12 and ten points, respectively.

The Falcons, who held leads of 29-28 at halftime and 46-44 entering the final quarter after a 16-16 first stanza tie, committed too many fouls down the stretch to whistle away the game. Steve Sperber bouyed the Falcon effort with 29 points, while Rick Rosenbach was the only other player in double figures with 11 points.

Amador grabbed first-half leads of 20-8 and 41-19 in vexing Dublin. John Sevo (12 points), Sam Jorgensen (13), Chris Kearns (12), Rick Howard (10) and Don Hall (14) all scored in double-digits to lead the ultra-balanced Don attack.

Dublin, unable to effectively penetrate on the Dons' switching defenses, were once again led by Jim Boulware with 16 points. Jeff Barnes had nine points to back the Dublin effort.

The Dons kept pace with Livermore at 9-2, while the Gaels fell to 1-10. Amador kept a one-game lead over Monte Vista, while San Ramon is still clinging to a one-game edge over Granada, losers of three in a row, in the fight for the final playoff spot.

PREVIEW OF HOMES—OPEN FOR INSPECTION

Sell yourself? Clean up

Q. We are planning to sell our home and do not want to go through a realtor. What is the single most important thing we should do to sell our home? R.G. in Dublin.

A. You have already excluded the most important step to take in order to sell your home, in the opinion of this writer, by not having a qualified real estate company behind you. Aside from this the single most important step is all up to you and that is the preparation of your home for showing. With a little effort on your part your home can be sold more quickly if it is clean and has a ready to move in look. A little paint on the front door, let in some sunshine, clean the ovens and closets and the bathrooms clean twice. Take down all those posters in the kids room and you may also take down the family pictures in the hall and get ready to move.

Q. My husband and I recently sold our home we had lived in for 5 years. We were told that in order to sell the home, a termite report was necessary, and we were required to pay for any work required to do by the termite company. My husband took very good care of our home, but the termite company said the entire bathroom floor needed to be replaced at a cost to us of several hundreds of dollars. We were informed that we had no alternative but to pay. Is a termite control report law and how can we be sure the floor needed replacing? P.H. in Pleasanton.

A. A structural Pest Control Report, more commonly referred to as a termite report, is not required by law in California. However, most lending institutions and all VA and FHA loans do require such a report as a condition of the loan. Also in the case of VA and FHA loans do require that be completed before escrow can close. If you felt the report by the termite company was incorrect you could have requested a reinspection by the company or asked a second company for an inspection and after comparing the reports and finding a disparity between the two go back to the first company and discuss the second report. If you still can't get satisfaction then you can contact the State Board to intervene. Remember that your buyer must be shown copies of all reports.

Q. Before moving to California my husband and I bought a home in Ohio, where our closing costs amounted to $65.00. Now we are planning to buy a home here, and have been told by a Realtor that our closing costs for our house, after putting down 10% will be about $2200.00. Why are the costs so much in California? D.W. Danville

A. The answer appears to be one of definition. Closing costs, a term as relates to real estate, is usually any expense incurred by the buyer above the amount of the down payment, and in addition to the purchase price of the home. Such items as: loan fees, Title insurance, recording fees, notary fees etc. are considered closing costs in California. In checking with an Eastern Broker, I learned that your $65.00 only covered the escrow fee, recording fee and notary fee. You did infact have all similar items done, however they did not call them closing costs, they came under a separate category called Attorney Fee. With a little further research I found it less expensive in additional costs to purchase a home in California than in most other parts of the country.

If you any questions on selling your home or the purchase of a new home direct your questions to Don Garlington c/o The Times PO BOX 607, Pleasanton, California 94566

Music beguiles champion gelding

Jolene Myers and Black Brandy

Piped-in music wafts through the air as the horses nuzzle the ground for tender bits of grass. The sawdust scattered around their pre-fab "barn" is fresh, and the log corrals lend a rustic touch to the 33 acres of land nestled in Pleasanton suburbia.

Lord of the manor is Black Brandy, a gelding owned by Jolene Myers and the top Western Pleasure Morgan horse in the country. Not to be outdone by her horse is 16-year-old Jolene, who was named champion Western Rider and reserve champion in the Showmanship category of the 1977 Morgan Horse Judging Seminar.

Held in Anaheim, the annual seminar is sponsored by the American Morgan Horse Association and brings together some of the nation's outstanding horsemen and women. Jolene's family was both surprised and pleased when she placed first in the region seven Western Rider division, the most difficult class for 14 to 17 year olds — especially since it was her first show!

A tenth grader at Amador High School, Jolene has been riding since she was four but never seriously considered competition until several years ago. With a Morgan that is so versatile he can compete in Western and English classes, along with driving, Jolene doesn't hesitate to set her sights on next year's Grand National in Oklahoma.

The young rider's ambitions are also based on knowing she has a lot of hard work ahead of her. Extracurricular activities are often forfeited because Jolene must school her horse, feed him three times a day, clean out the stalls and exercise the family's two other horses.

Riding is a family pastime, with "the battle won" regarding Jolene's competitive riding when "her dad had a curry brush in one pocket and was holding the reins" at the Anaheim event, says Mrs. Myers. A longtime horse lover herself, Mrs. Myers is also a 4-H leader.

Both Jolene and her mother agree that showing horses requires an entire family's participation, with the enormous financial outlay involved, out-of-town schooling for Black Brandy and frequent jaunts around the state for shows. And just because the show circuit runs from April to October doesn't mean a lazy summer vacation! "I still have to get up early in the morning and work at least three hours with the horses in the afternoon," points out Jolene.

The brunette highschooler just has to count the rainbow of ribbons that decorate her bedroom to realize she's come a long way — most of it on her own, says her mother. "Jolene wanted to do this," explains Mrs. Myers, "so her dad and I went along with it. We followed in HER footsteps."

Pleasanton candidate

Coffees set for Ott

PLEASANTON— Ronald Ott, a candidate for the Pleasanton Joint School District Board of Trustees, has announced a series of neighborhood coffees in support of his candidacy.

Ott has already had eight such events. The next one scheduled is Sunday, Feb. 13 at 2 p.m. at the Herlihy residence, 816 Abby St.

Also planned are neighborhood coffees Feb. 14, Shirley Maxwell's house, 669 St. Mary's St., 7:30 p.m.; Feb. 16, residence of Denise and Paul Zarcone, 318 Del Sol Ave., 7:30 p.m.; Feb. 22, residence of Joanne Nix, 7:30 p.m.; Feb. 24, residence of Zorine Jorgensen, 798 Neal Place, 7:30 p.m.

In a letter to valley newspapers last month, Ott said he believes "there is a minimum of trust, respect and communication between the board, superintendent, and teachers. This has resulted in the failure to successfully negotiate a contract between the district and its certificated and classified employees, probable detrimental effects on classroom education because of low employee morale, and a less than full exchange of ideas with the board."

Ott works at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory and is a magna cum laude graduate of Yale University. He has a doctorate in physics from the University of California.

Two candidates nights for Pleasanton school district aspirants have been scheduled.

On Tuesday, March 1, Vintage Hills School will host the six candidates at 7:30 p.m. On Thursday, March 3, the League of Women Voters and the Harvest Park Home and School Club is sponsoring a Pleasanton district candidates night at 7:30 p.m. and Amador district candidates forum at 9.

The latter two will be held in the library at Harvest Park School.

SRV trustee hopeful

Fiscal woes a worry

DANVILLE — Don Sledge, one of the candidates for the San Ramon Valley Unified School District Board, considers financial survival one of the major issues confronting the board.

According to Sledge, "The 1977-78 budgeting process will be an extremely difficult one. The district has already announced that preliminary review shows a $400,000 deficit."

This deficit figure does not include wage and benefit demands from the district's employees.

The operational budget is in dire straits. But there are two areas which can no longer be ignored: building security and building maintenance.

In light of recent tragic events, we must address the issue of securing and protecting the school buildings in our district.

The fire which destroyed Neil Armstrong school last fall, and the recent vandalism which cost the taxpayers another $12,000 in needless destruction at Baldwin and Charlotte Wood schools, are hard examples of the crying need to protect our investments.

Both of these tragedies could have been averted had the schools been protected by an alarm system or by other adequate means. We can no longer afford to ignore this need.

The second vital area is facilities maintenance. Each year, the district begins the budgeting process by listing maintenance as a high-priority item. Each year, by the end of the budgeting process, the board finds it necessary to reassign maintenance as a low-priority item. The budget for maintenance is reduced to well below the minimum level necessary to properly preserve our investments.

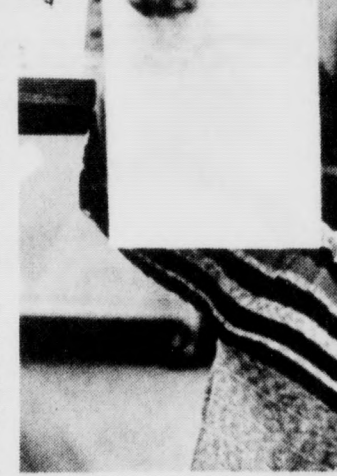

It is far cheaper to maintain a structure through a system of orderly maintenance than it is to replace it due to neglect.

Every commitment to build implies three items. First, we must construct. Then, we must protect.

Finally, we must maintain. To do the first, ignoring the last two items, is not the proper use of our tax dollars.

Hard decisions in terms of budget priorities must be made by the new board following election. Our district's financial survival depends on the wisdom of those decision."

Author Ella Ellis holds up work of a student at Harvest Park School in Pleasanton during her writers presentation and workshop with students Wednesday.
